

A Sense of Place Landschaft und Heimat im Umweltschutz

A Conference at the Schönes Haus
University of Basel, Nadelberg 6
September, 3 – 5, 2012

Schönes Haus, Basel

The conference addresses those aspects of environmental thinking that engage with the human need for settlement. It explores the many ways in which people experience and shape their natural assets as a home. It also enquires into the implications of this widely neglected topic for environmental ethics and politics.

Organisation:

Prof. Angelika Krebs, University of Basel
Prof. Roger Scruton, University of St Andrews, Visiting Professor of Philosophy at Oxford University

Contact and Registration (by 10/8/2012):

isabelle.pryce@unibas.ch

Speakers:

---

Robert Adam, Architect, London

---

Hank Dittmar, Chief Executive, The Prince's Foundation, London

---

Andreas Dorschel, Professor of Aesthetics, Graz

---

Klaus Ewald, Professor Emeritus of Nature and Landscape Protection, ETH Zurich

---

Michael Hampe, Professor of Philosophy, ETH Zurich

---

Angelika Krebs, Professor of Philosophy, Basel

---

Tony Curzon Price, Editor-in-Chief of openDemocracy, London

---

Raimund Rodewald, Director of the «Stiftung Landschaftsschutz Schweiz», Berne

---

Roger Scruton, Professor of Philosophy, St Andrews and Oxford

---

Beat Sitter-Liver, Professor of Philosophy, Fribourg

---

and others

---